writer/illustrator/designer/mental gymnast

aim

creative, curious and ambitious being seeks to be surrounded, immersed and challenged by those sharing the same mindset in whatever capacity and for however long we can maintain that mutual connection.

arsenal

Proficient in all requisite drawing, writing and design programs
Adobe InDesign, Photoshop, Illustrator; MS Office Suite

Artistic – Life is not simply visual, literal or aural. Think accordingly.

Inspired – Results aren't based on interest. Everyone is an A List client.

Dreamer – If it can be thought, it can be done. If not, think harder.

Genuine – Fakes don't get far.

Resourceful – The right tool for the right job and knowing which is which.

Eloquent – Heard, not herd.

Innovative – Attract the crowd, don't be part of it.

Efficient – Know what works. Use what works. Everything else is excess.

Dedicated – to the task at hand and to quality as a standard, not as a coincidence

“..(he) has helped add an alternative element that is sorely lacking in many sports publications.”

Edward Fraser - Editor, thehockeynews.com

“The neat part about his cartoons is that they ‘exercise’ your brain. Too many editorial cartoons are obvious from the get-go. You have to study a Charlie cartoon, concentrate - and then, POW! - you get it. Very clever.”

Dave Fuller - Sports Editor, The Toronto Sun

“..a unique blend of edgy and smart. His stuff resonates with people because it’s timely, relevant, and most of all, damned funny.”

Andrew Lundy - Senior Producer, CBC Sports

“He’s both my best and worst employee.”

Charlie Teljeur - CEO, charlieteljeur.com

“..a very creative and humorous artist with passion and intelligence in his work..”

Peter Gowdy - GM, Patient News Publishing 1994-2003
